Pullman Palace Car Shares Make a Sharp Advance-Dealings in Stand. ard Issues of Comparative Incouse. quence - Speculative Scatiment Chilled by Reactions in London

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.-The stock market opened very dull and with an uncertain tone. Speculative sentiment was somewhat chilled by the reactionary tendency that appeared in the London market, Consols showing a slight decline along with the other quarters of that market. There was other quarters of that market. There was no other explanation of the London tend-ency apart from the fears of continued high rates for money and the uncertainties of the South African war. The dealings here for fereign account continued, however, on a very small scale. An additional influ-ence in restraining confidence at the opening was a further and sudden break in Brooklyn Rapid Transit, which was, how-ever, partially recovered in the subsequent realizings. The course of the stock w unexplained except by purely technics market conditions. The dealings in the so-called new industrials continued rather fe-verish although no further sharp decline were noted there.

Among the specialties Pullman's Pala

Car scored a further sharp advance. Ti dealings in the standard issues were small volume and resulted in insignificachanges in prices.

anything concerning himself, and acted so mysteriously that an investigation was decided upon. Peck and Miller learned that Fraser had been in the city since October 2. and that he had been living at 1813 T Street northwest. A search of his room there revealed the presence of a large quantity of assorted new clothing. The articles recovered include forty-one pairs of trousers, sixteen waistcoats, three over-coats, five shirts, six neckties, two pairs of shoes, seven collars, five pairs cuffs, and seventeen dress suits. All of the recovered property is thought to have been stolen, and as Fraser, who is also known as "Williams" and "Jones," is also known as "Williams" and "Jones."

Metting's Stories False. According to information received by the police, Villiam Metting, alias "Harry Hill," who was arrested yesterday by Policeman Boyce, of the First precinct, on complaint of Rudolph Kauffmann, appears to be a most accomplished prevarienter. The young mun, it will be remembered attempted to obtain money from Mr. Kauffwann or the strength of a promise to recover a stolen bicycle. Motting first claimed to have purchased Mr. Kauffmann's bicycle from a colored man for $19 and to have then sold it to a drammer at Free-port, Pa. Later, he told conflicting stories and number declared that Mr. Kauffmann's bicycle was in the powersion of his father at his home in Trenton, N. J. Enquiry by telegraph at the Trenton address showed that Metting's statement was false. There is no question in the minds of the police that Metting stole the bicycle, as he has virtually admitted his guilt. He seems determined, however, to prevent the police from locations. pears to be a most accomplished prevarient mined, however, to prevent the police from locating the wheel. On the other hand, the notice are confident that Metting will weaken and disclose the location of the wheel.
